COURSES. STUDENTS ARE ENCOURAGED TO ADD AN ELECTION FROM STUDIO COURSE OFFERINGS TO GAIN HAND-ON EXPERIENCE WITH MAKINNG WORKS OF ART.

|

Students intending to pursue graduate study in art history should take the equivalent of four semesters of college level courses in a foreign language, usually French or German. Because works of art express the ideas of the culture that produces them, the study of art history involves knowledge of archaeology, cultural anthropology, history, literature, philosophy, religion and urban studies. In consultation with their advisors, students should select languages and courses in related subjects that treat the geographic areas and time of their special interest.

The total number of required courses in the Art History concentration is 13, the total number of credits is 39.
