Grade of D. A student may satisfy a specific requirement with a grade of D, but credits for that course may not be included in the 36 required for the major. Any additional Department of English course may be taken to make up the deficit.

Students may earn certification for a minor program within the department by completing 18 credits in that field. English majors may count as many as six credits toward both English major and one specific English minor, in which case only 12 additional credits need be earned. A second departmental minor requires at least 18 new credits. See the department worksheet for minor programs.
